83 Years Later, Hawaiian Still Growing for Hawai'i

Anniversary of First Flight in 1929

On Sunday, November 11, Hawai'i's hometown airline and the pioneering carrier of the Pacific, Hawaiian Airlines marked its 83rd anniversary of continuous service in Hawai'i.

"We take great pride in being 'Hawai'i's airline' and the distinguished place our company holds in aviation history is a tribute to our hard-working employees and loyal customers," said Mark Dunkerley, Hawaiian's president and CEO. "After 83 years, Hawaiian is becoming a global carrier, and one that remains comprehensively focused on Hawai'i. As we continue building on this legacy of service to our islands, we owe a debt of gratitude to all those who have made this milestone possible."

Hawai'i's introduction to the age of commercial air transportation began on November 11, 1929, when the inaugural flight of Inter-Island Airways (renamed Hawaiian Airlines in 1941) departed from John Rodgers Field (now Honolulu International Airport) bound for Hilo with thousands looking on.

The Sikorsky S-38 amphibian biplane, one of only two in the new fleet, was filled to capacity that day with eight passengers and two crewmembers. With a top cruising speed of 110 MPH, the inaugural flight took more than three hours to complete, which included a stopover on Maui. The first flight to Kaua'i took place the next day and soon all the islands were receiving air service on a regular basis.

In 1930, its first full year of operations, the new airline carried more than 10,000 passengers – a total that Hawaiian today exceeds daily – and the growing company soon began adding newer, larger, and more aircraft and hiring more employees to improve its quality of service for Hawai'i, a commitment that is ongoing.

Today, Hawaiian is the largest it has ever been with more flights to more destinations, more aircraft and more employees than at any other time in its history. The airline currently operates more than 200 flights daily serving 11 gateway cities in North America, six in Asia, two in the South Pacific, and one in Oceania with new services planned for Brisbane, Australia (November 27) and Auckland, New Zealand (March 13, 2013). Continued growth into new and existing markets outside Hawai'i is planned.

Dunkerley noted, "Our long term plan is focused on expansion into markets that have the greatest potential for growth in visits to Hawai'i, and we look forward to bringing many more visitors to our islands in the months and years ahead as we continue to expand our operations and carry the Hawai'i brand.

In keeping with its continuing growth, Hawaiian has hired more than 500 new employees in 2012 and now has a total workforce of 4,816. The company plans to add another 300 new operational and administrative positions in 2013.

Hawaiian currently operates a fleet of 43 aircraft, comprised of 25 wide-body 294-seat Airbus A330-200 aircraft and wide-body 264-seat Boeing 767-300ER aircraft for transpacific flights, and 18 narrow-body 123-seat Boeing 717-200 aircraft for Neighbor Island flights.

As part of its long-range fleet renewal and expansion plan, Hawaiian will take delivery of 13 new A330s between 2013 and 2015, bringing to 22 the total number of A330s in its fleet.

Hawaiian's new A330s are more fuel-efficient and have a longer operating range than its fleet of Boeing 767-300 aircraft, giving Hawaiian the capability to open new nonstop routes between Hawai'i and points throughout North America and eastern Asia.

Starting in 2017 Hawaiian will begin welcoming the first of six next-generation, longer-range A350XWB-800 aircraft into its fleet, which will enable further growth into more distant international markets. Hawaiian's A350s will seat more than 300 passengers in a two-class configuration and have a range of 8,300 nautical miles, allowing Hawaiian to fly nonstop between Hawai'i and virtually any viable tourism source market around the world.

Hawai'i Convention Center Wins 'Best Convention Host' Award as Voted by Readers in Premier Traveler Magazine's Best of 2012 Survey

The Hawai'i Convention Center has been selected as the "2012 Best Convention Host" by the readers of Premier Traveler magazine.

This prestigious distinction recognizes Hawai'i and the Center as an ideal gathering place for business, political and cultural meetings, as decided by the more than 11,000 readers who participated in an open-ended survey with no suggested choices. The Center is the only Hawai'i facility to win an award, and the only convention facility in the country to be honored.

"Few meeting destinations evoke the kind of excitement generated by Hawai'i, which is no doubt why our readers named it the Best Convention Host of 2012," said Adam Rodriguez, executive director of Premier Traveler magazine. "They are seasoned and demanding travelers, who know what they want after traveling the world for both business and leisure, so their choice is clearly among the most informed there is."

"The enhanced productivity, top-notch facilities, incredible service and global opportunities offered by meeting in Hawai'i are what allows us to continue to be a leader for meetings of international importance," said Joe Davis, SMG general manager of the Hawai'i Convention Center. "This recognition from such a seasoned group of travelers honors the hard work of our staff and partners in providing an exceptional meetings and travel experience that stands up to the highest standards of every guest."

The Best of 2012 winners are featured in the November/December issue of Premier Traveler magazine, and were honored at an awards gala November 8 in Los Angeles. With 104,000 subscribers, Premier Traveler is the world's leading publication geared toward frequent international travelers.

Hawaiian Flew 96% On Time, No Cancellations in September

Hawaiian Airlines' ability to stay on schedule was close to perfect in September, with Hawai'i's leading carrier ranking first nationally in both on-time performance and fewest cancelled flights, as reported today by the U.S. Department of Transportation (DOT)'s Air Travel Consumer Report.

Hawaiian's flights arrived on time at its destinations in September at the rate of 96.4 percent – exceeding the industry average by 13.1 percentage points – to earn the DOT's top spot in the rankings of the nation's 15 largest airlines.

Complementing Hawaiian's reliability for travelers during September was the fact that none of its 6,005 scheduled flights were cancelled, also earning it the #1 ranking in the DOT report.

In addition, Hawaiian ranked third in the category of fewest oversales, or passengers denied boarding, for both the third quarter at 0.14 percent for every 10,000 passengers, and year-to-date through the first three quarters at 0.18 percent per 10,000 passengers (DOT reports oversales quarterly.)

Hawaiian provides daily nonstop service to Hawai'i from 11 gateway cities in North America – more cities than any other carrier – using Airbus A330-200 and Boeing 767-300 aircraft, making it the only carrier to offer wide-body, twin-aisle aircraft for all transpacific flights.

Hawai'i's largest and longest-serving carrier is also the leading provider of air service between the islands of Hawai'i.

The DOT's Air Travel Consumer Report is available at <http://www.dot.gov/individuals/air-consumer/air-travel-consumer-reports>.
