

Mayoral candidates come to Waikiki

Waikiki Improvement Association presented a Mayoral Candidates Forum on Wednesday, September 1 at the Hyatt Regency Waikiki. Kirk Caldwell, Panos Prevedouros and Peter Carlisle were on hand and spent about 90 minutes with a group of interested WIA members.

The informal session allowed each candidate to take the podium and offer a short introduction. WIA members then split up into three groups and each candidate sat with each group for about 20 minutes answering their questions.

The lively discussions addressed many concerns during the short sessions including candidates' views on the future of the Natatorium, enforcement of noise ordinances and waste treatment options as it relates to Waikiki.

All the candidates were open to new options for mass transit in Waikiki. The candidates agree that a Waikiki circulator (a bus system that would circle Waikiki and go to a designated location to meet up with the rail system or with remote parking) was the best scenario to ease congestion.

Rick Egged, WIA President said, "Waikiki is one of the major economic centers of Honolulu and whomever the Mayor of Honolulu is has a direct impact on the relationship between Waikiki and the city. That relationship has been an important part of Waikiki revitalization and will continue to be in the future. Mahalo to the candidates and WIA members for taking time out of their busy schedules to participate. Special thanks to Hyatt Regency Waikiki Beach Resort and Spa and Sheraton Princess Kaiulani."

Meaning "the royal court," ke aloali'i is a reminder of Hawai'i's rich, sacred heritage. Aloha Festivals honors this tradition, and since 1946, has steadfastly maintained the images, symbols, protocols and beauty of Hawai'i's royal heritage.

Mō'i (king), Mō'iwahine (queen) and Kamaali'i (prince and princess) are represented this year by 'Iolani, Natalie, Chaz and Sha-Lei Kamau'u. The Kamau'u 'ohana has been associated with Aloha Festivals since its inception. Their roots in Hawaiian traditions reach back countless generations.

Royal Hawaiian Center is honored to host the Aloha Festivals papahana wehena (opening ceremonies), today, September 2, 2010, on the 172nd anniversary of the birth of Queen Lili'uokalani, hānai sister of Princess Bernice Pauahi whose Helumoa lands are home to Royal Hawaiian Center.

E kipa mai. Join us at 4:30 pm today and witness this Hawaiian tradition. The Royal Hawaiian Band and Hālau Hula o Maiki will perform in honor of Ke Aloali'i.

E ho'olaule'a pū kākou! Let's celebrate – Hawaiian style!
