The state Department of Transportation (DOT) marked the completion of the new International Arrivals Corridor at the Honolulu International Airport with a dedication ceremony earlier today.

Located on the third level of the 'Ewa Concourse, the new corridor will provide a pleasant, secure route to the Federal Inspection Services (FIS) area for arriving international passengers who deplane at Gates 26 through 34. Approximately 2,100 feet long, the corridor uses a series of three Autowalk people-mover systems which will eliminate the need for Wiki-Wiki shuttle buses.

The enclosed, air-conditioned International Arrivals Corridor has glass windows on one side with plantings of hibiscus and other tropical foliage along the exterior, giving visitors a unique feeling of Hawai'i when they first arrive.

"About 1.5 million international visitors arrive at the Honolulu International Airport every year and 80 percent of those arrivals will be utilizing the new corridor," said Jiro Sumada, DOT Deputy Director. "This modern, new facility will enhance the overall travel experience for visitors and residents while maintaining the highest levels of safety and security."

Governor Lingle leads a group on a section of the recently installed Autowalk people mover system

"The International Arrivals Corridor is another significant component of our Airports Modernization Plan to upgrade Hawai'i's airports statewide," said Governor Linda Lingle. "The improvements we have completed or launched over the past four years are helping to increase the efficiency of airport operations, while creating more modern, comfortable, accessible and convenient airport facilities for the traveling public.”

The total cost of the project is approximately $37 million, 75 percent of which was federally-funded. The project was built in six phases with the first phase dedicated a year ago on October 15, 2009.

As part of the International Arrivals Corridor project, there is ongoing work on the second level of the ‘Ewa Concourse from Gates 26 to 30. To further enhance the security of the corridor, glass partitions will be installed from the aircraft loading bridges located on the second level to the corridor entrance doors located on the third level. Escalators leading to the corridor will also be enclosed with glass partitions. This work is expected to be completed in September 2011. Gates 31 to 34 will not require modifications as they are already enclosed with glass.

“I am very pleased to see the completion of the International Arrivals Corridor,” noted Senator J. Kalani English (D, Hana, East & Upcountry Maui, Molokai, Lanai & Kahoolawe), Chair of the Senate Committee on Transportation, International and Intergovernmental Affairs . “This is a prime example of how projects like these not only improve our infrastructure, but keep Hawaii workers on the job while enhancing our biggest industry, tourism.”

Inouye Co., Ltd.).

The International Arrivals Corridor is part of the 12-year, $2.3 billion Airports

Modernization Program to upgrade Hawai'i's airports. Developed and launched in 2006 by the Lingle-Aiona Administration in conjunction with the Airlines Committee of Hawai'i and other airport and visitor industry partners, the comprehensive plan involves implementing projects to improve passenger service, increase security and operational efficiencies, increase airport capacities and enhance travel convenience.

Long-Time Hawai'i hotel executive returns to the Islands as General Manager of the Miramar at Waikiki

A long-time Hawai'i hotel executive, and graduate of the University of Hawai'i Travel Industry Management School, is returning to the Islands. Ted Sakai has been named General Manager of the Miramar at Waikiki, once a favorite among local residents for banquets and business meetings. Sakai will be responsible for the day-to-day operations of the Waikiki hotel, which features 358 rooms, four casual dining restaurants, and meeting space for up to 250 people. Sakai is taking over from interim General Manager Richard Oshiro, who will return his full time focus to sales and marketing as the Miramar at Waikiki's Executive General Manager and Director of Sales.

Sakai left Hawai'i in April 2004 to become hotel general manager of the Four-Diamond Doubletree Hotel Sonoma Wine Country. During his six years there, he upgraded the property to a resort, and created a variety of Wine Country guest experiences from cooking classes and food and wine pairings, to seasonal menus and wine country and golf tour packages. Under his leadership, the property became one of Hilton Hotels Corporation's showcases, and received such recognition as State of California Green Lodging Leadership Award and the Doubletree Brand's CARE Cup recipient out of 207 properties.

Sakai began his career in 1985 as manager of Orchids Dining Room and room service at the Five-Diamond Halekulani Hotel. He joined Hilton in 1987, and worked his way to the position of Director of Food and Beverage at the 22-acre Hilton Hawaiian Village. He then served as Executive Assistant Manager at the Hilton Waikoloa Village on the Island of Hawai'i.

In Sonoma, Sakai was highly active in the community, including as president, board member and executive officer of the Sonoma County Lodging Association; member of the Sonoma County Tourism Bureau executive committee and board; and board member of the Santa Rosa Convention &

Visitors Bureau and the Rohnert Park Chamber of Commerce.

Located adjacent to the vibrant International Marketplace and just one block from famed Waikiki Beach, the Miramar at Waikiki offers one of the best values in Waikiki. The 358-room hotel provides comfortable accommodations offering ocean and mountain views, an array of on-site dining options, spacious outdoor swimming pool, and easy access to area attractions and activities. Rack rates start from $99 per night.

Hyatt Regency Waikiki awarded Four Green Keys in Eco-Rating Program

Hyatt Regency Waikiki Beach Resort and Spa, located at 2424 Kalākaua Avenue, has been awarded Four Green Keys as a part of the Green Key Eco-Rating Program from Green Key Global. The graduated rating recognition system is designed specifically for hotels and resorts that are committed to improving the environment through their own practices and policies.

“A rating of Four Green Keys is another positive tribute to what we have been doing at Hyatt Regency Waikiki. It is an endorsement of all that we have achieved over the last few years; it also serves as a reminder that environmental efforts will be forever at the forefront of our policy making decisions,” says David Lewin, general manager at Hyatt Regency Waikiki.

While the Four Green Key rating recognizes the successes of a hotel or resort, Green Key Global also provides recommendations for future in-house green initiatives. The Green Key Performance Report is thus used as a guide towards more eco-friendly changes that can be achieved on property.

Hyatt Regency Waikiki has been recognized several times for environmental efforts.
